Revise the plan to address past neglect first for the Nantahala-Pisgah National Forest

Dear Kristin Bail, USFS North Carolina Forest Supervisor,

Kristin, if the latest version of the plan does not first address the failures of past forest management plans in the area, the citizens of the area will have no faith in your agency to adhere to the revised plan. I've read the goals of the revised plan, and I agree with some critics that it's too broad. The Forest Service needs to be transparent and acknowledge and address past failures first and foremost.

Sincerely,

Rick Dickson
