Big Ivy logging

To whom it may concern, and I hope it does.

In this day and age, felling trees in naturally wooded areas to supply our demand for wood is insanity. Trees should be farmed, leaving wilderness areas in a natural state, in the hopes that this kind of policy will go a long way toward hanging on to the environment we so crucially depend upon. We must do all we can to improve and maintain our planet's ecology. It's now...or never.
