Comments:

I do not believe that coal mining should be allowed AT ALL on public lands. If rules need to be clarified, it should be to limit any possibility of this happening. These lands were set aside to preserve and protect them for future generations, and to protect our planet; not to exploit and damage for profit and greed and the gain of politicians and political favors. We are losing forests and wild lands at an alarming rate worldwide, and if we don't protect what we have, we will kill ourselves off and the last humans will look at our generation and ask how we could have been so incredibly stupid and shortsighted.
