Come on! Any idiot can see that the age of coal is dead. We cannot continue extracting, shipping and burning coal if we have even the most rudimentary understanding of climate change and the environmental impact of coal mining. There is no way to do it without destroying the land it is taken from, and the Roadless character of this region must be preserved over the myopic economic interests of those who promote this idea. Colorado used to be known as a bastion of environmental vision, but is losing that status rapidly. Don't be fools! Stop this proposal in its tracks!
