As you well know, or as you should know, there is no such thing as a temporary road in a roadless area. You may bar traffic, but the scar will remain for centuries.

Why would we agree to continue to mine coal on public land?The nations who signed the recent climate change agreement plan work to reduce consumption of fossil fuels.

It is time to stop this foolishness. I am against road building in any roadless area, and I am against continued coal mining on public lands.
