Most of us have not spent years studying the impact of climate change. Those of us who have know that life as we know it will change drastically for the worse if we do not move very quickly to cut greenhouse gas pollution.

Coal is not only a bad climate polluter, but a poisoner of our existing atmosphere. China is learning what

London and Pittsburgh learned centuries ago - people cannot breathe foul air.

We are shutting down coal in the US. Yet here is a proposal to despoil pristine areas owned by US citizens so that we can contribute to our children's demise and to the degradation of others all over the world.

Is our morality as bankrupt as Arch Coal?

Please do the sane thing and preserve this area in Colorado.

Thank you.
