To Whom It May Concern:

Please continue to enforce existing roadless areas rules. Changing these rules for any purpose threatens pristine wilderness areas of significance to my family and families across Colorado and the United States.

To change these rules to allow a coal company to exploit these lands for private profit is doubly problematic as it not only threatens pristine wilderness areas but moves our state and country away from clean energy at a time where global consensus is coalescing around fact that climate change -- caused in large part by dirty energy sources, including coal -- poses a threat to the health and well being of future generations.

As a parent and a Coloradan, I implore you to consider not only short term but the long term impacts a change in the rule would have -- and make the right choice here.

Sincerely,

Brent Jordheim
