Dear Ms. Rasmussen,

Thanks for the opportunity to comment on the Forest Service's Plan Review for the Chugach National Forest. Although I believe I already wrote in an expression of my thoughts and feelings, I'd be remiss in not writing in again at this late date. Basically, please "Don't fix something that isn't broken"! I understand the long history of the current designation as a Wilderness Study area and sympathize with the Forest Service's desire to get Congress to act on a final designation. That said, I strongly advocate that the area be designated as a "True Wilderness" area which will keep the special character of the area relatively unchanged.

Kindest regards,

David Goldstein
