Comments:

Tongass National Forest is a NATIONAL Forest, held in common by ALL Americans for the benefit of all of us, not for a few extractive mining companies nor for the sole use of the State of Alaska. Alaska holds Tongass in trust for the rest of us as a wild forest, home to an amazing and diverse biota and flora, the likes of which is found nowhere else on Earth. No one should be able to change it into a product and put it up for sale! The worth of this National Forest is incalculable and it must be protected, not exploited. Legalities cannot take away/diminish the worth of wilderness nor the intrinsic value of an intact, wild boreal forest.
