Comments:

Tongass National Forest is classified as a roadless natural preserve and, as such, falls under all rules and restrictions that entails. This national forest is a jewel in the crown of the U.S., including its wildlife and natural resources. These are not to be logged or mined or otherwise manipulated for human convenience, profit or greed. The "economic" aspect of those living near the preserve is irrelevant, and those who claim hardship living near the forest only want to profit from from it. They need to secure other employment or relocate.

Preserve Tongass National Forest, and protect it from loggers, miners and the gas/oil industry!
