"No to the Suicidal Economy; Yes to Real Growth" As more and more data is received to confirm the reality of anthropogenic climate Change, it is imperative the the USA does all that is possible to limit its consumptive dirty energy economic system and adopt to a clean energy economy and sustainable growth. The U.S. Forestry Service should maintain the "no-action alternative, which is the continuation of current management of the Tongass National Forest in Alaska in accordance with the 2001 Roadless Rule." We should no longer harvest this forest. We should no longer extract minerals from this forest. We should not etr Further there should be restriction on the number of vehicle allowed into the Tongas National Forest each year. This number should be lowed by 3% of the number allowed in 2017 in each of the following 30 years. Real Growth means that the Tongas National Forest should be given 750 years to recover from the harm done (clear cutting, old growth loss, road building, commercial building, et.a.) to it since 1907. Real Growth means that Tongas National Forest should be allowed to eke healed and in cooperation with Canada to expand east and north.
