Comments:

I am a past resident of Southeast Alaska, and I remain highly interested in the area. I would like to make my preference known. I favor limiting new road development in the Tongass. Of course, part of limiting road development would mean limiting the spread of clear-cut logging.

The remaining uncut islands of SE Alaska are an area like none other on earth. To the extent that I, as an American, own an interest in this area, I would like to see the natural values preserved. Commercial fishing is not an issue, nor is recreational use. Clearcut logging, however, is a permanent change that takes land use away from everyone else, for lifetimes.

I favor whatever alternative will preserve the largest amount of roadless land.

Sincerely,

Oliver Osborn
