I would like to see the Tongass kept roadless. I am a lifelong Alaskan from Fairbanks, our trees are tiny, it is amazing to me to venture south and see such massive forests. I went to Kodiak Island for the first time a few years ago and saw the incredible destruction of logging. Those areas are done for my lifetime. I haven't seen the Tongass yet and would like to see the area covered in trees, not splinters and slag. Lumber prices are at an all time low right now so there is no financial reason to deforest either.
