Comments:

I, like so very many others, have been battling to protect The Tongass for decades. It is such a pathetic reflection of the overriding corruption and greed of our government and investor class that all the countless efforts of the people to preserve the beauty and habitats of The Tongass must be replayed time after time.

With species extinction increasing across the globe, it is asinine that there are humans so short-sighted and self-involved that they would once again be pursuing this course of destruction of The Tongass. Leave it alone, and leave a space for wildlife and old growth forests to survive.
