I want the Alaska Roadless Rule to apply to all inventoried Roadless areas on the Tongass, particularly areas on Baranof, Chichagof, and Kruzof Islands. These areas are important to me because I sport fish and work in commercial fishing. For me, the most important thing is that I like to go hiking and hunting here, especially on Kruzof Island. I love to go to Sea Lion Cove for hiking and camping. Sport fishing, hunting, hiking, and camping should be allowed in these areas. I want access for recreation and hunting in these areas. I used to work for Allen Marine and tourists would look in horror at Redoubt because it still looks terrible, decades after clearcuts. In places like Chatham Strait and Clarence Strait, you can really see the impacts of past logging, and clearcutting leads to terrible habitat for hunting. Under the new Alaska Roadless Rule, no massive logging, clearcutting, or mining should be permitted in any of these areas.
