Comments:

I support not repealing the Roadless Rule. I'm a lifelong Alaskan who works as a bear viewing guide and commercial fisherman. I also fish and hunt for all my family's meat. The people I guide pay a lot of money for a wilderness experience. They come to Alaska to get away from roads and experience untrammled nature. The future of my region's economy depends upon keeping its wilderness character. More roads would be detrimental to tourism and commercial fishing, not to mention my subsistence lifestyle.
