Comments:

I am writing in strongest support of maintaining the Roadless Rule for the Tongass National Forest, continuing the current management of the forest. I spent two weeks there in a river-rafting expedition and it was the most exceptional experience I have ever had in the wilderness of the U.S., or anywhere in the world. There are very few places in our country that have not been encroached upon by roads and development. We, as human beings, need to maintain Edens like this, and they are also essential for the wildlife and plant life they support. When Americans think of Alaska, they think of its exceptional wilderness. Thank you for your consideration.
