Comments:

I take part in exploring and site seeing in the CNF all year round. When family and friends come to visit I really enjoy showing the beauties of Alaska. We always stick to trails and have a strict rule "what we pack in we pack out". Keeping Alaska residents from being able to explore and enjoy these areas would also hinder a lot of local businesses as well. Local businesses rely on residence to buy machines and gear for exploring these areas. This area is also used to harvest meat to feed families. You are literally taking food out of peoples mouths if you shut it down.

Also why are so many people that are from out of state allowed to comment? A lot of the comments say the exact same thing. Like they were paid to cut and paste a comment.
