For Option B. It is disheartening to see all of the land that was set aside for the General Public being taken away and enforcing limited use. National Forest were designed to have the u.s. forest service manage them in such a way that all recreationists could utilize the land. If the u.s. forest service is not doing their job to manage the lands properly then this is not the way to circumvent poor management. There is no reason that both interest groups that are for and against these options can't come together and demand proper management so all groups are able to use the lands for the intended purposes. Motorized travel isn't all about Recreation. It's about utilizing tools to effectively access locations for research, search and rescue, etc. Motorized travel and especially over the snow travel is a way for users of our national forest to get to areas where they get to experience the beauty freedom and solidarity of these great locations. Locations that you otherwise wouldn't be able to experience without accessing with motorized vehicles. Option C and D are unacceptable.
