I have overlooked evaluation areas to be considered, and it raises a lot of concern. If expanded areas are considered you take away public lands to the people for following activities such as, hunting wild game for food on the table, accessibility for firefighters to properly manage wildfire, wood cutters to gather dead trees, and brush to limit wildfire. There is also concern for economy. Seeing how the town of salmon, and surrounding areas rely on tourist activity in the summer to make a living and profit, you in a sense keep people contained in small areas making it a place not worth visiting. local folks who live here depend on our public lands for a lot of our daily living, and recreation. I myself practically live in the woods, and the idea of expanding such a mass acreage to wildlife limits the accessibility to the people. This is the peoples land, and expanding it this much in a sense colonizes us to small surrounding areas. I feel this is a federal overstep into the land that is ours. I will do my best to inform the public in what is at stake here, and make sure our voice is heard!
