Comments:

I am a paraglider pilot. Recreational areas suitable for launch are few and far between in most areas. I fully support the preservation of our wilderness areas for public enjoyment. In the case of the King Mountain Launch Site, that may require that the road leading to launch still be permitted for use to the launch. A permitting process to drive would be acceptable, but please don't close off access to the launch completely. Paraglider pilots might be able to hike there, but hang gliders are bigger and heavier, and would be effectively blocked from using the site were the road to become off limits.
