Comments:

Regarding the potential closure of the King mountain flying site due to a reallocation of wilderness boundaries, I wish to submit that such a closure would greatly sadden me. As a USHPA member and Colorado based XC pilot, King Mtn is not exactly my backyard; however I have visited and flown the site and count it as one of the best areas I've experienced- to include my six years of European living. To end access to the site, it's access roads, or the surrounding airspace would be a severe tragedy to the soaring/flying community across the US, not just the local ID pilots. Please consider this in the coming weeks.
