Comments:

I am generally in favor of the USFS protecting lands under their jurisdiction with greater environmental restrictions. I am adamantly pro-wilderness and hope more areas within our National Forest system are designated as such.

That said, King Mountain has a long and storied history as a free-flight launch site, requiring limited vehicular access. I hope there is a way to both preserve this unique area while at the same time allowing for traditional hang-gliding and paragliding at King Mountain.

Please do your best to reconcile these views. Thank you.
