Comments:

The Custer Gallatin National Forest is revising the agency's forest plan that will determine how wild buffalo and their habitat are managed for decades to come. They recently released a Draft Environmental Impact Statement outlining a range of alternatives on management of wild buffalo

We support strengthening provisions in Alternative D by setting strong standards rather than weak guidelines to achieve the "desired condition" of viable, self-sustaining herds of wild buffalo in the National Forest.

Reintroducing fire as a natural force in expanding and improving habitat, removing impediments to migration, and securing habitat connectivity across the buffalo's range are methods we support.
