Comments:

As a snowmobiler and lover of all outdoors, by further narrowing the usable area for the public during the year seems to me to defeat the purpose of national land. It should be land of many uses by all of the public because we all pay taxes to keep it nice. We as snowmobiling group collectively take good care of the land we are able to use. If the area we can use is made smaller we as a state would lose valuable tourist money over the whole year especially winter. I would very much appreciate a thorough study done looking into the impacts of tourist towns such as Cooke city when the lands are not able to be rode on during the winter. I believe you would see a heavy decline in overall business and possibly closing of businesses. I would hate to see that and we all take care of the lands and opportunities to enjoy them that we are given. Please don't take more land of all of the public to enjoy what we have.
