Comments:

I am opposed to more logging of old-growth on Prince of Wales Island as there has already been too much clearcutting on that island. More removal of old-growth will have a negative impact on wildlife, and therefore on subsistence hunting. The proposed logging does not take into account the well-being of the island's residents.

Also, with climate change wreaking havoc on the state of Alaska, it seems crazy to destroy any more carbon sinks; we need the old-growth timber intact. The Forest Service should drop the old-growth timber sales and focus entirely on restoration, stewardship, and recreation projects.
