Comments:

These lands constitute a massive carbon sink. Alaska, and this site in particular, are uniquely positioned to remain a massive carbon sink. Please do not remove this carbon sink. I may be from Ohio, but this would still be a grave insult to me to see this Alaskan forest go. As a conservationist who lives in an area that is more or less developed, it would be inconceivable to me to through any effort of mine or my colleagues to recoup the losses incurred by a hypothetical destruction of this forest. Please let this wild area remain wild.
