Custer Gallatin Forest Plan - comment

Dear Madam / Sir:

The habitat of the grizzly must not be diminished.

Any alternative to habitat reduction for the grizzly must be the only choice.

Grizzlies are an essential part to a balanced ecosystem.

All apex predators are essential to a healthy planet.

So, in general habitat for all wildlife needs not only not to be reduced, but increased.

The habitats of all apex predators (other than humans) need to be, at a minimum, maintained, and ideally increased.

All plans that reduce, in any fashion, wildlife habitat are contrary to balanced planetary health planning.

Please do all that you can to ensure that the planet remains healthy and an inviting place for all life forms.
