I am not in favor of additional wilderness in Idaho. I don't believe the so called eco experts and science change experts with their BS trying to tell the people that they are correct... which they are not. You can't take care of the forest's you have now. Look at the fires that have burnt so much of the forest. Today they are not being maintained as they were in the past, today we have all of this fake and junk science telling us to listen to you people and nothing changes except there is more wilderness that a great many more people can't enter.
