Do not strip one of our last great forest of its valuable old growth trees and all of the ecosystems that they support. Climate change has made it imperative that we stopped before stain and start replanting. It is time our country look towards biodiversity as the true future for Humanity, not economic growth, not corporate profits, not kowtowing to corrupt politicians and their cronies. These lands belong to the American people to enjoy, to protect, and to ensure that we have a habitable planet.
