I am 25 years old, born in Juneau Alaska, attended college in Fairbanks Alaska, married a woman from Anchorage Alaska, and we now currently live, work, and will raise our family in Juneau Alaska. My wife and I want MORE ROADS IN JUNEAU and Alaska in general. I don't want to see every forest tree cut down and pavement poured on top, however, some simple dirt roads would be so nice to bicycle on and take hikes with my family. Making more of the Juneau area's accessible to people would be so awesome. I can't even imagine what a new road like that would be like because the terrible roadless rule in Alaska that Clintons threw into law just before he left office, around the time I was born. People not from Alaska should have ZERO say in having a few dirt or paved roads/trails built for us. Don't let a bunch of Californians and New Yorkers persuade you otherwise. Listen to real Alaskans, and if you do you'll find the vast majority of us want more access to see and enjoy our beautiful state.

Thanks
