Comments:

The Tongrass National Forest is much more valuable to us (all people, not just U.S. Americans) as a protected forest, than as a resource for logging and/or mining.

It provides more diversity of living things, sequesters huge amounts of carbon, and is valuable to local people for the tourism economy. Logging the Tongrass has been demonstrated to be a significant loss to taxpayers of the U.S.

I adamantly oppose permitting any logging in the Tongrass.
