Comments:

Tongas is the greatest temperate rain forest in North America. It stores a huge amount of carbon, helping to alleviate global warming. It shelters wildlife. It provides spawning grounds for salmon, supporting fishermen and native communities. It is a (mostly) unspoiled wilderness. The timber sales in the Tpngas forest lose the government money. Most of the timber is not used in the US, but shipped to Asia. Please build no more roads in the Tongas wilderness.
