Tongass National Forest

To Whom It May Concern:

I am deeply concerned about the proposal of the U.S. Forest Service to open up the door to timber harvesting in the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass National Forest is a treasure for its unique natural environment and rich indigenous cultural heritage. And, as the world's largest intact temperate rainforest, it stores more carbon than any other forest in the country and, as such, its survival without modification is crucial to help reduce the adverse impacts of climate change.

Please preserve this national and global treasure in its unaltered state.

Thank you.
