I support plans that would minimally alter the natural state of any National Forest. Those plans should focus on the needs of any indigenous peoples first while maintaining the pristine nature of the forest. I do not support any commercial extraction of National Forest resources for the profit of private enterprise except those owned wholly or in part by native indigenous peoples.

Our National Forests are public possessions that should be preserved in their natural states in order to provide pristine areas as a bulwark against climate change and for our descendents' enjoyment. National Forests should never be on any list of commercial development or resource extraction plans.
