I support, and urge you to please support Alternative 1. Native homelands deserve genuine care and protection, as do Wildlife and Fisheries Habitat. Old Growth Forests are crucial to the absorption of atmospheric CO2. Enough is enough; the current political climate seems to favor a return to the bygone creed of resource extraction no matter the impact, and of less and less regulation of industry across the board. We've gone down this road before (pun somewhat intended). It's time for people of knowledge and conscience to say no to the greedy ethic of perpetual material exploitation, which is a mindset that never stops wanting its way, whatever the cost, and never stops wheedling, bullying, cajoling and manipulating in order to get it. The Roadless Rule said "NO!" to all such scheming; please don't extract a single tooth from it.
