roadless comment

to whom it may concern,

I spend any free time I can boating and exploring around one of the most beautiful places in the world, my life long home, southeast Alaska. I strongly support option 1, keep the roadless rule in place exactly as it is. or at the very least, anything but the totally ludicrous prefured option 6. southeast Alaska is one of the very few remaining places in the world that we have not destroyed. option 6 would do just that. and what for? so China can buy the timber for pennys only to sell a good portion of it back to us? is that really worth it? I dont personally know a single person in favor of option 6, and the 90 plus percent of the comments that have been received confirm that. I could go on and on with environmental impacts, negative affects on tourism, fishing, and so on, but I will leave it at that. please dont destroy my home. listen to the people and keep the roadless rule in place.
