I have been skiing at Targhee and enjoying the valley's resources for 30 yrs. Our natural resources are precious. They are irreplaceable. While I absolutely love skiing and have been dying for the extra terrain at Targhee this action comes with a consequence. Parking is already a huge issue for the mountain adding these lodges and lifts will drastically increase the need for large amounts of space to park. Is this worth the sacrifice of the already shrinking wildlife habitats? I'm a business owner and fully understand the need and want for growth financially. I do see the financial value that expansion will bring to the entire area with increased tourism year round. The valley is growing and will continue to grow but I think this is a decision not to be made lightly. What everyone loves about the area is the wild untamed nature and views, not the big city. I'm not in favor or against the expansion but feel that environments are more important than bottom lines.
