Comments:

I strongly oppose this expansion as I am certain it will hurt the many amazing animal populations that rely on Grand Teton as their sanctuary - especially the Grizzly Bear, which is already wiped out from most of the mainland USA. Development of skiing, biking, ziplines, and other entertainment infrastructure will infringe on the land Grand Teton's animals rely on; more will be killed in car collisions, or due to being a perceived threat to people coming for the new attractions. I believe the most pressing public service here is to preserve the wilderness in Wyoming, and protect these species could soon be gone everywhere else... so that Grand Teton can continue to thrive as a world-famous national park and national treasure, paying for itself through responsible tourism. I therefore urge you to reject the expansion proposals and protect America's great wilderness.

Sincerely,

Dmitriy Komin
