

Date submitted (UTC-11): 10/12/2020 12:00:00 AM

First name: Tatyana

Last name: Komin

Organization:

Title:

Comments:

The greater Yellowstone Ecosystem is one of the last treasures on the Earth where still exist native wildlife. Any developments, ski runs, snowmaking, showcats, mountain biking, ziplines, new roads, three new ski lifts disturb wildlife.

This project is going to destroy a lot of acres of wildlife habitats in South Bowl and Mono Trees areas.

The Grand Teton area is the only one place in the whole WY where you can see grizzly bears. Hundreds of animals are dying from car collisions already. This project will affect wildlife even more. Grand Targhee expansion (on South Bowl area) will significantly impact moose population, it will remove higher elevation habitat where moose seek shelter from heat and noise.

Canada lynx, wolverines and bighorn sheep will be in catastrophic danger.

All developments are super dangerous for nature and wildlife and they should be considered very responsibly.

Again, the Grand Teton area is a treasure for all, not just for businesses.

Tatyana Komin